

Sometimes, ONE wrong letter can completely change the meaning of a sentence.

It might be: an extra letter
the wrong letter
a letter in the wrong place
a missing letter

There is only one wrong letter in each sentence below. Find the typo and replace it with the correct spelling.

- ① Madison was ^{hit} bit by a ball during the game.
- ② For breakfast, I ate an apple, a banana, an orange and a ^{pear} bear.
- ③ I got a terrible stomachache after I ate my ^{food} foot yesterday evening.
- ④ The bank robbers were finally caught by a ^{police} polite dog.
- ⑤ Killer bees are very dangerous because they often ^{sting} sing in large numbers.
- ⑥ Of course, whenever I don't like a TV show, I just ^{turn} burn the channel.
- ⑦ I'm looking for a new pair of ^{pants} ants to match my blue shirt.
- ⑧ He was ^{born} corn in America in 1963.
- ⑨ According to the manager, we'll need 10 ^{years} ears to finish the project.
- ⑩ This weekend, we're going to go ^{diving} driving in the Red Sea.
- ⑪ My boss asked me to organize the new ^{files} flies in the cabinet.

Did you use a dictionary for hints?